1. Tapolca Airfield

- The buildings on the northern side of the airfield (See annex) have all been completed, in some cases rebuilt.
- There are no large runways on this airfield, but they are to be built. In July 1953, there was only a concrete apron before the buildings on the north side of the airfield.
- In July 1953, 25-30 IL-10 aircraft were seen on the airfield.

2. Infantry Regiment in Tapolca.

- There is a large barracks holding an infantry regiment in the woods some 500 m. due north of the Tapolca-Billege Csarda-Balatonszerics-Keszthely road, and north of the Tapolca airfield. This regiment includes not only infantry units, but also artillery, antiaircraft artillery and tanks, subordinated to a regimental headquarters in Keszthely.
- Sheds for military transport vehicles and tanks were under construction; these should have been completed about October 1953.
- Due south of the barracks is a branch line leading off the main Simeg-Tapolca railroad line. It runs for about 500 m. and has a ramp for loading and unloading troops and vehicles.

3. Munitions Dump Near Tapolca

About 1 km. west of the above barracks in the "Billege Erdő" woods is a large ammunition and bomb dump.
